Bridging gaps, breaking boundaries

Privatization is a globally recognized strategy for streamlining the public sector and promoting economic development. In this rapidly developing sector, Carmody represents both sellers and buyers in many public and private divestitures, including the leveraging of public and quasi-public assets through privatizations.

With an interdisciplinary approach, we staff these complex transactions with lead attorneys who have particular industry and geographical expertise to efficiently manage every aspect of the transaction, from due diligence to operating contracts to financing.
